All funds received from the USDE for HEERFII- CRRSAA Student Grants Distribution are disbursed directly to Title IV eligible students. All students in active attendance as of March 1, 2021, and enrolled in an eligible program are eligible to be considered for a HEERFII grant. The award amounts will be determined to first consider students with exceptional need to include all students meeting Pell Eligibility in relation to Expected Family Contribution (EFC) to the Total Amount awarded. The amount of awards will be tiered based on need associated with the EFC and defined in the table below. Students must acknowledge the need for the funds and opt-in to receive the grant dollars designed to off-set the impact of COVID-19. These funds are noted on the student ledger as HEERFII. Any unclaimed funds will be used to meet the range of awards by student EFC identified below. The following schedule is used to assess initial need and supplemented by the students' designated application indicating need.

On January 14, 2021, the U.S. Department of Education (ED) released instructions to access and key provisions to utilize the new round of the Higher Education Emergency Relief Fund, which was included in the recently passed the Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act (CRRSAA). This round will be referred to as HEERFI to differentiate it from the HEERF grants distributed through the CARES Act. Unlike the CARES Act, the CRRSAA requires that institutions prioritize students with exceptional need when awarding this new round of grants to students. Broadview University (BVU) will review all applicants based on Pell Grant Eligibility and EFC (expected family contribution) from the most recent FAFSA Application as well as the responses on this application regarding a student's disclosed need for the funds. No grant amount will be determined or funds distributed until all applications have been reviewed. Due to this, there is an application deadline of March 15, 2021. Please make note: no applications received after this date will be considered.
